Cordially invites you to attend:

The importance of Family Support during the Formation of the Ethnic Identity of Your Children

This presentation is in Spanish and will offer participants the opportunity to identify qualities and tools offered by the Latino culture and how to utilize them to help familial growth.

Presenters:

Gregory Benson-Flórez, Ph.D., is a full time faculty member and Assistant Professor in the Clinical Psychology Department at The Chicago School of Professional Psychology. Dr. Benson-Flórez has more than 7 years of clinical experience as a bilingual (Spanish/English) therapist providing individual, family and group services primarily to Spanish speaking Latinas/os. He has provided therapy to children, adolescents and adults including parents.

Concepción Marin, B.A. is a Counseling student at The Chicago School of Professional Psychology, with a focus on Latino/a Mental Health. Concepcion's main focus is to work on the development of Latino Leadership, and to help Latino communities to obtain mental health education and services.

Erika N. Garcia is a first year Clinical PsyD student at The Chicago School of Professional Psychology. She is interested in working with children, adolescents, and Spanish speaking families who are discouraged from seeking mental health services because of barriers such as language.
